

Sejal Lakhani-Bhatt | CEO of TechWerxe

Sejal Lakhani is the CEO of TechWerxe, a leading Managed Service Provider (MSP) for small-midsize businesses and the CEO/founder of CloudWerxe, a scalable cloud solution for MSPs. After graduating from The University at Buffalo, Sejal began her career working for major global banking institutions in the regulatory and compliance divisions, as well as on the trading floor. For 12 years, she traveled around the world working for leading financial firms in Japan, London, Hong Kong and Singapore.

In 2012, Sejal left the banking industry to join TechWerxe. By 2014, Sejal took over the operations, sales and marketing for TechWerxe and became CEO, while her husband continued to focus on the company's IT services. Under Sejal's leadership, the company earned recognition as a top 100 MSSPs (Managed Security Service Provider), top 500 MSPs (Managed Service Providers), and received numerous other industry awards.

In March 2019, Sejal's husband Tejas passed away suddenly from a heart attack at the age of 39. Committed to upholding their company mission, Sejal spent months dissecting all aspects of TechWerxe to analyze knowledge gaps and determine what changes needed to be made to move the company forward. She spent over a year restructuring TechWerxe to stay on course to achieve her and her husband's strategic long-term goals for the company.

Sejal is in the process of launching a second company designed to offer small to mid-sized MSPs a top-of-the-line, secure cloud environment called CloudWerxe.

Sejal is currently on the Board of Entrepreneurs Organization (EO) and Connect 4 Business Exchange (C4BX). Sejal is also part of several Mastermind groups, is an avid supporter of St. Jude's, and works with organizations that support victims of Human Trafficking.

Sejal is devoted to her two young boys and committed to showing them the strength women can have in the face of adversity.
